The key question Jake asked the students was, "When is it hard to be kind?" He explained how if we're completely honest, we encounter situations when we don't feel like being kind. Elementary students are starting to understand how to think about what they do and don't want to do. We hope they can work through the difficulties they face when showing kindness when they don't want to show kindness. If they can identify when it's hard to be kind, they can figure out a plan to help them show kindness anyway. In Ruth 1 and 2, we find Naomi and her daughter-in-law, Ruth. Their husbands have died and Ruth has the opportunity to return home to her family. Instead, she chooses to show kindness to Naomi and stay with her. Ruth's kindness doesn't go unnoticed. Boaz notices how Ruth is caring for her mother-in-law. He goes above and beyond to care for Ruth and completely changes her life. Jake's bottom line was this: Be kind to your family and friends. When it comes to our family and friends, we often find ourselves taking them for granted. Jake taught students through the story of Ruth about learning to show kindness to those we care about most.
